

DEBENTURE IS MADE PART OF SENATE'S BILL

Sharp Conflicts Will Result as Result of McNary's Action

Washington, April 18—(AP)—The Senate opened its legislative floodgates today and the first measure to come through them was a new farm relief plan presented by Chairman McNary of the Agriculture committee which would authorize the export of debenture plan to be set up to aid in solving the problem.

Coincident with the appearance of this bill, the House proceeded with consideration of a rule limiting debate on its own farm bill which probably will bring a vote by the middle of next week. The House bill does not contain the debenture plan and a cleavage between the two branches of Congress is probable before a measure is finally enacted.

Many Proposed Bills.

Today furnished the first opportunity for the introduction of bills in the Senate and as soon as Vice President Curtis announced that they were in order almost half of the membership was on its feet to offer proposals for the extra session which President Hoover wants limited to farm relief, tariff revision, and a few other subjects.

Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, won first recognition and put forward the farm bill. In rapid order Chairman Jones of the Commerce committee introduced the bill for the 1930 census and Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, advanced the measure for reappointment of the House.

One by one the membership advanced new and old proposals and within half an hour the Senate had before it a multitude of legislative suggestions.

Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, who will take over the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce committee, introduced the measure offered last session by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, for a Federal Communications Commission.

Other Proposals.

Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, again proposed an amendment to the Senate rules to allow for open sessions in the consideration of executive nominations, while Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, again proposed his constitutional amendment to change the time for the meetings of Congress after elections.

Senator Cole Blaise, Democrat, of South Carolina, who has been assailing the diplomatic immunity enjoyed by diplomats in bringing liquor into Washington, took the opportunity to officially record himself by introducing a bill to curb the practice.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Charles J. Rhoads of Philadelphia, to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Senator Blaise also offered a resolution to make the dry law applicable to vessels flying the American flag on the high seas. This was directed by the Levithan and other formerly government-owned ships whose new owners have declared wines would be sold on the ships outside the three-mile limit.

The South Carolina's resolution regarding the diplomats not only would have them denied the right to serve liquor in the embassies but would call upon the President to ask public officials here and abroad to refrain from drinking liquor with representatives of the foreign governments.

CONFLICTS APPARENT.

Washington, April 18—(AP)—Conflict between President Hoover and members of his party in the Senate on three important proposals and between the Senate and House on at least one appeared certain today as the two chambers swung into the full stride of legislative activity.

The decision of the Senate Agriculture committee to introduce its bill today in tentative form including an optional export debenture provision emphasized the possibility of a sharp difference between the chamber. The plan had been definitely excluded from the bill which was before the House for the beginning of the special session's designated task.

This difference in Congress on the advisability of including a debenture plan provision in the general farm relief bill is believed by many Republican leaders to be one of the issues on which the President and the Senate may find themselves in disagreement.

Although the Executive has adhered to his "hands off" policy, and no word on the administration's view of the debenture plan has been given, Mr. Hoover is regarded in some quarters as placing his main reliance in the farm relief discussion in the House.

Other Differences.

That is only one of the differences which observers profess to see in the making between the President and the Senate. Republicans in the Senate are divided on the national origins clause of the immigration act.

FLORIDA TROOPS GUARD INFESTED FRUIT FLY AREA

Quarantine where Mediterranean Pest Has Foothold

Orlando, Fla., April 18—(AP)—With vigorous control methods already applied and with four companies of state troops ordered mobilized to reinforce the quarantine, Florida officials felt more confident today they would be able to exterminate the Mediterranean fruit fly within the area.

Discovery several days ago of the new pest in an area approximately 12 miles north and south and six miles east and west in Orange and parts of Lake and Seminole counties, moved the state plant board and federal inspectors to set into motion machinery for eradication.

No Shipments Allowed.

A strict quarantine was clamped on the infested area and no shipments of fruits and vegetables will be allowed from that section. Cleanup work was started in the groves, with the fruit being destroyed with quick lime and trees sprayed to kill the grown flies.

The fruit fly, which originally came from West Africa, is virtually omnivorous so far as fruits and vegetables are concerned, only a few varieties not appealing to its taste. Commissioner of Agriculture Mayo said it would infest 71 of 80 varieties of fruits and vegetables grown in Florida. This is its first appearance on the North American continent, but how it came to reach Florida is not known.

Say Sinclair Has Lost Control Of His Oil Company

New York, April 18—(AP)—The Herald Tribune said today, it had learned in well informed Wall Street circles that Harry F. Sinclair, under three months sentence for contempt of the United States senate, had lost control of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation of which he is chairman of the board of directors.

A group which included Blair & Company, incorporated, New York bankers, Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago financier, and the Fisher Brothers, automobile makers of Detroit, is understood to be the new dominant interest in the company's affairs.

The Blair-Cutten-Fisher group is now represented on the board of Sinclair Consolidated by Cutten who was elected last October.

Bombs Intended To Kill King Boris Found In His Car

Sofia, Bulgaria, April 18—(AP)—Police announced today they had frustrated an attempt to assassinate King Boris when he returns to Bulgaria with discovery of two unexploded bombs in the King's private railway coach last night.

The bombs were of obsolete type but sufficiently powerful to have wrecked the railway coach, police said. Their statement added that they had received warning certain communists intended to take the life of the King if the bombs failed to explode.

COOK CO. SCHOOL HEAD PUTS BLAME UPON PROHIBITION

Says A Couple, A Bottle And A Car Are Most Dangerous Quartette

Chicago, April 18—(AP)—Edward J. Tobin, superintendent of Cook County schools and in that capacity supervisor over the schooling of 100,000 children, believes that "a young couple, a bottle of moonshine and an automobile are the most dangerous quartet that can be concocted for the destruction of human society."

Superintendent Tobin is one of six men, prominent in education in Cook county, who are acting as jurors in the coroner's investigation of George Lux's death early Sunday after a round of roadhouses with several other young men and girls. In a statement last night he attributed the death, and conditions leading to it, to prohibition.

Blames Prohibition

His views were epitomized in six paragraphs, as follows:

About 70 per cent of the young men of 18 to 25 years of age accept as the regular standard recreation a party, an auto ride, dancing and a bottle of gin or moonshine.

About 50 to 60 per cent of the girls above 17 years of age accept this code.

In pre-Volstead days the bottle never aspired to dictate the social habits of our young people. It does today.

A young couple, a bottle of moonshine and an automobile are the most dangerous quartet that can be concocted for the destruction of human society.

Bottle Is By-Product

Families and homes originate from early association of young people of both sexes. A home or a family tied with a bottle of bootleg has a foundation in quicksand.

The bottle is a by-product of prohibition. Either the bottle as one of the trio has got to go or its ancestor, prohibition, must go.

The school superintendent gave it as his opinion that the liquor and delinquency problem among American youth rested first with parents, then with schools and finally with the law.

"There is nothing unusual in the party that led to the death of young Lux," Mr. Tobin said. "I am conservative when I state that 10,000 boys and girls barely in their teens and little beyond, were out the same night, doing the same thing."

Nothing New In It

"The tragic occurrence, the inquest with the sullen, bewildered attitudes of the girls and boys taught me nothing. We were all aware the common existed."

"One thing that impressed me at the inquest was that the youthful witnesses were mortally afraid to have their parents know they had been drinking. Inclined to be bold and frank to others, they went the limit of untruthfulness to hide things from their parents."

"I dare say at least 90 per cent of parents are fiercely opposed to their children's drinking. The significance is that the parents still hold the whip hand, if they will use it."

Lindy's Birthplace Bought By Society

Detroit, Mich., April 18—(UP)—The three story brick house in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was born has been purchased by the Swedish Engineering Society of Detroit and is to be preserved as a memorial to the famous flyer.

Announcement of the purchase was made today by Carl B. Parsons, chairman of the ways and means committee of the society.

"The society will not convert the home into a Lindbergh museum," Parsons said. "On the contrary, it will be open only to members of the society and their invited guests and while a number of Lindbergh memorials will be suitably placed in the home, the house will maintain the atmosphere of a home rather than a show place."

Mr. Fergus Again Goes On The Prod

Springfield, Ill., April 18—(AP)—Undaunted by repeated rebuffs in various courts, John B. Fergus, of Chicago, veteran protagonist for senatorial re-appointment of Illinois today tried the Illinois Supreme court again as field for a fight. He appealed from the Cook County denial of quo warranto suits brought against all Illinois legislators, in which he sought to have them show cause why they held their seats, but neglected to comply with the state's basic law, requiring re-districting.

Fergus' latest failure was in the U. S. supreme court, to which he had appealed from the state supreme court, in another case tackling the problem.

ANOTHER FROST LAST NIGHT

The second frost of the month fell on this section last night, and also the temperature dropped below freezing for the second time in April, the mercury registering a minimum of 30 early this morning. Some early cabbage plants are reported to have been nipped by the frost but aside from that it is not believed any damage resulted.

SAY MACDONALD FAILS TO CLEAR THE SITUATION

Snowden is "Thrown Overboard" Without Helping Cause

London, April 18—(AP)—Political circles opposed to Ramsay MacDonald and the Labor party today charged that although the former premier had "thrown overboard" Philip Snowden, his reputation had failed to clear a situation which was compromising in the extreme for his party.

MacDonald, in a speech in the commons last night, disclaimed any intention of "repudiating" the Balfour note or other British debt agreement covenants. Snowden, who was chancellor of the exchequer in the labor cabinet, had said the labor party held itself open to do so. MacDonald said, however, the agreements were subject to revision.

The sensation created by Snowden's threat, made in the course of an attack Tuesday on Winston Churchill's budget proposals, to repudiate the agreements which set the debts of France and Italy to England at only an amount necessary to cover British indebtedness to the United States, continued unabated with general acceptance it would cut a figure in the impending national elections, May 30.

Liberals, although they always disapproved Premier Baldwin's debt arrangement, joined with the government and conservative leaders in denouncing the idea of "repudiation." Walter Runciman, who is acting Liberal leader in the Commons in the absence of David Lloyd George, told the house last night his party wished to make it clear that it would not depart from a doctrine of continuation of contractual international obligations however much might disapprove the terms.

He said the liberal party wanted the world to realize that once Great Britain put her name to an undertaking she carried it through.

Crib For Second Pier on Bridge Is Completed Today

The crib for the second pier of the new Peoria avenue bridge was completed today and all of the water had been pumped out, leaving a bed of dry gravel. The work of re-inforcing the interior of the crib with heavy beams will be finished today and the task of removing the gravel to a sufficient depth will be started. Another crib is to be started as soon as material arrives.

Louis Widell, general superintendent of the construction company, stated this morning that he expects to begin pouring cement within the next ten days, barring unforeseen delays. With a gradual fall in the stage of the water, the preliminary operations will increase. Another force of workmen and additional equipment is expected to arrive in Dixon in about six weeks and another camp will be established on the north side, two crews working from each side of the river. Mr. Widell announced. The present high stage of water is not delaying operations and the work today has not been delayed.

LONG GAS PIPE LINE.

The syndicate has awarded to Ford, Bacon & Davis the contract to construct the line for $26,000,000. Work is to begin at once.

Noble Red Man Is Slipping, We Fear

Chicago, April 18—(AP)—Chief No. 88, who is 88 years old, and Chief Eagle Thunder who is somewhat younger, have developed a weakness for bath and silk underwear. The Isaak Walton League is considerably concerned.

Bert F. Bell of Rapid City, S. D., who is looking after the Indians, is perplexed, too. The chiefs were brought from the Sioux reservation to beat tom-toms and that sort of thing for the Isaak Walton League show now going on. They don't wear silk underwear on the reservation.

"Since coming here, they bathe two and three times daily," Bell said. "They would rather recline in shiny white tubs than eat. We don't mind that so much. The trouble is they want new suits of underwear after every bath."

Something, said Bell, has got to be done about it.

DENY FREEDOM TO LIFE.

Springfield, Ill., April 18—(AP)—When Elmer Schuedter, a Chicago youth of 17, pleaded guilty to murder after shooting store keeper Gottlieb Duggie to death, twelve years ago, he expected a prison sentence for fourteen years, and had been agreed by his lawyer and the state's attorney. Instead of fourteen years he got "life." He hadn't counted on Judge Hugo Pam objecting.

Since then he has been trying to repair the mistake. Today in the supreme court he lost another attempt to obtain release. He was denied both a writ of error, super-deas and bond.

His story was the hold up of the groceryman was in fun, and the shooting was unintentional.

Woman Killed Today When Bank Is Raided

Columbia City, Ind., April 18—(UP)—One woman was killed and Sheriff J. M. Haynes and another woman were wounded today when four bandits, one of them carrying a machine gun, robbed the Columbia City State Bank.

Ralph R. Ferry, cashier, pressed a burglar alarm when the bandits entered the bank, summoning Sheriff Haynes and his deputies from their headquarters across the street. The Sheriff was shot in the chin as he ran into the bank lobby.

A stray bullet from the machine gun which had been trained on the deputies killed Mrs. J. Fred Binder, who lived in a second story apartment opposite the bank.

The woman who was wounded in the fusillade disappeared in the excitement attending the holdup and could not be found.

The sheriff and his deputies fell back as the machine gun went into action against them and the bandits escaped in an automobile that had been waiting for them at the curb.

Dixon National Bank Installs Depository Usable Day and Night

Workmen started operations this morning on the installation of a day and night electrically protected depository at the Dixon National bank.

The night depository is a new depository in this locality and is being installed by the McClintock system. Deposits may be made at the bank at any hour of the day and night by those availing themselves of this service. The depository is also protected with the electric burglar alarm system. Complete details of the operation of the night depository will be announced within a few days when it has been installed.

The chimes clock at the bank has also been given a thorough overhauling and a new set of chimes installed, which are very pleasing and which have been in use since the clock was installed.

Jones Law Is Only For Big Violators

Chicago, April 18—(UP)—A warning to United States District Attorneys to "use discretion" about applying the new Jones law with its heavy penalties in liquor cases has been received at the federal building here from Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General assigned to enforcement of the prohibition laws.

The Jones law, says Mrs. Willebrandt, is to be applied only in cases of real commercialism and not in minor infractions of the dry law where it is the district attorney's judgment that the penalty should be more than 12 months imprisonment.

Mrs. Willebrandt instructed the district attorneys to file criminal information against "the little bootleggers and violators" and prosecute them for maintaining public nuisances so that they will escape the five year penalty of the Jones law.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

PAUL REVERE'S RIDE

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere,
On the eighteenth of April in seven-fifty-five;

Hardly a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year.

He said to his friend, "If the British march
By land or sea from the town tonight,
Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry arch
Of the North Church tower as a signal light—

One if by land, and two if by sea;
And I on the opposite shore shall be Ready to ride and spread the alarm
Through every Middlesex village and farm—

For the country folk to be up and to arm."

So through the night rode Paul Revere;
And so through the night went his cry of alarm
To every Middlesex village and farm,
A cry of defiance and not of fear,<
A voice in the darkness, a knock at the door,
And a word that shall echo forevermore!

For, borne on the night wind of the Past,
Through all our history, to the last,
In the hour of darkness and peril and need,
The people will waken and listen to hear
The hurrying hoof-beats of that steed,
And the midnight message of Paul Revere.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

PROHIBITION IN THREE PHASES IS BEFORE ASSEMBLY

Wets Back Triple Assault on Dry Laws of This State

Springfield, Ill., April 18—(AP)—Three angles of prohibition poked their way from the tangle of bills and resolutions in the state legislature today.

One dealt with the De King case at Aurora, in which Mrs. Lillian De King was slain by a deputy sheriff during a dry raid; another demanded a test of the federal government's right to regulate manufacture and sale of any alcoholic preparations other than intoxicating beverages. The third aimed at amending the state law to permit manufacture, transportation and sale of two-per cent malt tonics for which federal permits have been issued.

Recognized dries voted with wets in the House of Representatives to approve, 81 to 50, a resolution to create a special committee to investigate the De King killing. The vote was preceded by considerable criticism of the manner in which the case has been handled, speakers demanding that the legislature through a special committee find out who may be at fault.

Desire for Justice

At least a dozen state Representatives classified as dries voted for the resolution, the point being made that this was not a wet and dry issue but one in which prohibitionists were as anxious as anti-prohibitionists to see justice done.

The second action involving prohibition centers around the Green resolution which directs the Attorney General of Illinois to open a court battle of state rights in the regulation of medical liquors, sacramental wines, industrial alcohol and non-intoxicating beverages.

The House committee on Judiciary yesterday approved the Green resolution, 18 to 15. Should the House approve the resolution today, it would go to the Senate for concurrence.

Root of Question

Wet forces in the legislature look upon the Green resolution as getting at the root of the prohibition question. It is contended that the states never have granted to the federal government any control over alcoholic beverages, except intoxicating amendment does not extend beyond that limited field, and that federal legislation concerning medicinal liquor, sacramental wines, industrial alcohol and alcoholic drinks that are non-intoxicating is unconstitutional and void.

The third prohibition bill was endorsed by the Senate Judiciary committee yesterday without opposition. Its sponsor, Senator John Boehm of Chicago, pointed out that the state law prohibits malt tonics which the federal government permits, and asked that the state law be amended to conform with the federal regulations.

Classing the fight as one between "club women who raise poodle dogs and housewives who raise children," opponents of the women on jury bills in the House today crippled the measures by forcing a referendum amendment.

Although sponsors of the bills, led by Mrs. Rena Elrod, successfully stopped an attempt to kill them outright, the referendum amendment was adopted by a 65 to 49 vote. Thirty absentees were recorded on the roll call, many of the "absentees" sitting quietly in their seats while the roll was taken.

Mrs. Elrod declared the referendum would have the effect of killing the bills because of the difficulty of persuading voters to approve any kind of referendum.

Rep. John Devine of Dixon led the fight against the bills, also improvising the "poodle dogs" phrase. "Housewives and mothers," Devine declared, "don't want to serve on juries. If this referendum clause is added, the proposition won't be approved in more than four downstate counties."

Devine was backed by Arthur Roe of Vandalia who read a letter from the secretary of a woman's club in his district who had endorsed the Elrod bills.

"One of the federation club women," the letter said, "came down here and forced this resolution on us."

Mrs. Elrod interrupted to ask if Mr. Roe voted to ratify the woman's suffrage amendment.

"I did not, thank God," Roe shouted, "and if it were up again and I had a thousand votes I'd cast them all against woman suffrage."

"Maybe this is another noble experiment. It will prove the most costly we ever had."

APRIL
Now April has come.

The country grows sweet here, The chaff and wheat.

Behold, from the land of ripe oranges come!

And cherry and plum, With white blossoms gleaming

The hill-sides are seaming, Too long have been dumb

The woods and the world: With buttercups blest,

The lark builds her nest In green and in gold.

There's cover for all birds, For large birds and small birds,

Where furred leaves unfold, She comes like a bride

In front of the tide Of emerald mist.

No keen weather stays her; No bird disobeys her;

No bud can resist. A touch of her wand—

And buds rise to meet her, And birds' eyes all greet her—

Why even the garrulous ducks on the pond

See signs of her wand! As if the Magician

Sent ducks on a mission With news from Beyond,

With tidings which they Through natural art

Feel bound to impart! But April and May

Themselves are their voices, And no bird rejoices

Superbly as they They come like a bride

In front of the tide Of emerald mist.

No keen weather stays them; No bird disobeys them;

No bud can resist. —Geoffrey Dearmer, from "The Oxford Book of Carols."

Mother and Daughter Banquet Was Most Successful Affair

The eighth annual Mother and Daughter Banquet was held at the Methodist church Tuesday evening and proved to be one of the most successful affairs in the history of the church.

The tables filled the entire dining room of the church and were beautifully decorated in blue and gold.

About thirty men of the church, attired in white, served the banquet and enjoyed the program.

The ladies of the Church School Orchestra furnished music while the ladies were gathering and the program was especially good. Following was the program enjoyed:

Music—Ladies of the Church School Orchestra, Mrs. Will Smith, Director.

Banquet—Mrs. A. T. Stephenson, Toastmistress.

Invocation—Rev. A. T. Stephenson. Violin Solo—Miss Eva Lawton.

"Our Mothers"—Miss Dorothy Dodd.

"Our Daughters"—Mrs. Arthur E. Sheffield.

Double Quartette—Mothers and Daughters.

Address—Mrs. Claud S. Travis.

Song "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Mrs. Claude S. Travis, the speaker of the evening, who is wife of the pastor of the large Epworth church in Chicago, gave a very helpful address and used illustrations from the lives of the early pioneers, for her ancestors came to Indiana in the covered wagon and had much to do with the history of that state. She has pleasing delivery and her address was the main feature of the happy affair.

Mrs. A. T. Stephenson the Toastmistress made the suggestion that next time the church school might have a Father and Daughter banquet and also a Mother and Son banquet, and it is possible that this new plan may be used next year.

Ladies of G. A. R. In Happy Meeting

Forty members, comrades and guests attended the meeting of Dixon Circle No. 73, Ladies of the G. A. R. Monday afternoon, and before the business meeting was called to order Teal Messer, Dixon artist, spoke about the proposed soldiers and sailors memorial, for which he has drawn designs. He explained the memorial in detail.

Department President Nettie Johnson Reuter was present at the meeting and gave an interesting short talk on "Patriotism" in its different phases, emphasizing that of its many forms the greatest is service. She spoke of the convention to be held in Rockford in June and urged a large attendance on the part of Dixon members. She also explained plans for a memorial—a public drinking fountain—to be erected by the Ladies of the G. A. R. in Rockford. Her final remarks were devoted to a tender tribute to the comrades who preserved the Union and made it a fit place for habitation. At the conclusion of her remarks, she was presented with a gift of love and appreciation by President Lillian Stevens in behalf of the Circle.

Five guests from Rochelle, including the President, Mrs. Haymaker, were present at the meeting and gave short talks, as did a number of the old soldiers present. Two new members were initiated and five applications for membership were presented. A social hour, during which refreshments were served, brought the happy afternoon to a close.

And The Bride Goes Honeymooning Alone

New York, April 18—(AP)—A trip to Europe, on which she will not be accompanied by her recently acquired husband, today appeared to be in prospect for Mrs. Thomas M. Gorman, the former Natalie Guggenheim.

The palatial Guggenheim home at Roslyn, Long Island, took on a deserted appearance with the departure for an unannounced destination of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond A. Guggenheim and 18-year-old Natalie.

Callers found only maids and cleaning women, most of them hired only for the day, placing s'p'covers on furniture. It was learned that a number of trunks and suitcases had been removed to a New York pier.

Gorman, the young real estate broker, who secretly married the heiress on April 6, admitted he had not seen his bride for some time.

Women's Committee, I. N. U., To Hold Laundry School

Under the broad general title, "Short Course in Gas and Electrical Equipment," the Women's Committee of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company is holding a series of four meetings, this year, designed to bring to the women employees a general analysis of gas and electric service in the home.

At the first meeting in January, Miss Helen G. McKinlay of the Edison Lamp Work, Harrison, N. J., gave a splendid talk on the fundamentals of lighting for the home and its decorative possibilities.

The second meeting will be held on April 22. This instruction covers laundrying and promises to be a most valuable offering to those who attend. The lectures and demonstrations will be given in the Company's General Office in Dixon by Miss Delphine Lerschen, a representative of the Federal Electric Company of Chicago.

Other meetings will follow at intervals of three months until the series is complete. Instruction in the application of gas and electricity to housekeeping will be given by representatives from companies associated with the Electric Light and Power Industry and members of the local Women's Committee will be on the programs from time to time.

It is expected that approximately seventy employees from Dixon and vicinity will attend the meeting on Monday when the following program will be given.

Morning Session 10:15 A. M.

Roll Call

Items of interest from local territory or current event of general interest to the utility industry.

Talks

"Report of Electric Range School held by the Edison Electric Appliance Company"—Helen Winger, Personal Service Department.

"What the well informed employee should know about the presentation of appliances—washing machines, irons and ironers"—Delphine Lerschen, Federal Electric Company, Chicago.

"Water Heating"—Helen Finney, Information Clerk.

Dinner at 12:30 P. M. at the Coffee House.

Afternoon Session 2:15 P. M.

"Latest Methods of Laundrying"—Demonstration and lecture by Miss Lerschen.

The interest of club women and teachers in home improvement makes this program a desirable and timely one. A cordial invitation is extended to the women of the community to attend the afternoon session when much helpful information will be given on the process of laundrying in the home. The program will include a complete physical demonstration of washing and ironing the electric way.

Wedding at Suechting Home Last Evening

Claire Calmer and Miss Cora Herstrom of Woodhull, Ill., were married at 8:15 o'clock last evening at the parsonage to the Immanuel Lutheran church, by the pastor, Rev. A. G. Suechting. The attendants were Mrs. A. G. Suechting and Henry Fishback. The single ring ceremony was solemnized, in a very quiet ceremony. The couple left immediately after the wedding, to make their home in Woodhull, Ill., where the bridegroom is the manager of a restaurant and where they will receive the best wishes of many friends.

Knights Templar Annual Ball, Tues., Apr. 23 at Masonic Temple

Mattoon, Ill., April 18—(AP)—A "publicity breakfast" of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers today brought together publicity chairmen of the organization from all parts of the state, attending the 30th annual meeting of the congress.

Mrs. Walter H. Buhlig of Chicago, past president and vice president in charge of state publicity presided, and was chief after-breakfast speaker.

Various aspects of the work were presented by Mrs. J. J. Macroe of Moline, who gave the district organization viewpoint; Mrs. Alvin J. THE REAL WANDERERS.

The month of April is a bad time for the restless. It puts thoughts of adventure and wandering into men's minds, and makes distant trails and far-away frontiers look glamorous and inviting.

Down in the Antarctic, Byrd and his men burrow into the ice and await developments in the loneliest land on earth. In Mexico young American aviators go zippering through the air, dropping bombs and firing machine guns for sheer love of adventure and $125 a day in gold. In the Pacific, Gifford Pinchot's barkentine pushes on to a fabled island of romance, and a millionaire paving contractor from Cleveland sails for the South Seas and an undiscovered island paradise he learned about in a dream. Three Hollanders try to cross the Atlantic in a lifeboat, and dude wranglers from the western ranches are busy, in New York, taking the applications of easterners who want to play at being cowboys this summer.

All in all, the month is an adventurous one. And here we are, all of us, compelled to stay safely at home! We read in the papers about the brave wanderings of the more fortunate, but we know we can never go with them, and it makes us restless.

However, it is a question whether the man who stays at home does not get more real romantic thrills out of life than the man who goes traveling. The chap who actually sets out adventuring is apt to get disillusioned quickly. He goes to the ends of the earth to see the storied places of his dreams and finds life there was much as it did at home.

Bangkok, Khyber Pass, Port Said, Samarang, Callao, Rio Punta Arenas—these are glamorous names. But when a man actually gets to one or the other of these places, what does he find? Glittering scenery that looks unreal, strange people who turn out to be very like the people at home, an eddying current of life that under the surface is identical with the life he has always known.

The glamour disappears; he notices that Shanghai has filthy alleys, that Smyrna is full of beggars, that there are many distracting insects along the Amazon, that Algiers is hotter than any place has any right to be. Worse yet, he rides through Penang in an American flivver, eats American breakfast in Rangoon, sees an American movie in Port of Spain. His romance has faded like the mists of the morning.

But the stay at home never gets disillusioned that way. He is the one traveler who never gets footsore, the one globe-trotter to whom all places are forever new and inviting. The dull trappings of reality never cloud the sunless skies of his South Seas. Burma and Socotra are always places on a different kind of planet, to him, inhabited by people who are essentially unlike the people at home.

Are you one of the multitude that does all its traveling in an arm chair at home? If so you are lucky. The world can always be romantic and glamorous for you. The names on the map that thrilled you when you first saw them will always thrill you. You can keep all of your illusions.

A SCIENTISTS ADVICE.

An age that prides itself on its scientific accomplishments ought to be interested in a letter sent to the American Philosophical Society at Philadelphia by Dr. Carl Barus, professor of physics at Brown University.

Here is Dr. Barus' comment on the scientific age: "I am by no means sure that to teach the people at large more science will not do more harm than good. Science lends itself to the arts of war, of aggression, of exploitation, of sabotage, quite as much as to the arts of peace."

"In other words, I think that what we need just now is not an appeal to science to set its house in order; what we need is better civil law, cleaner politics, less obstinate credulity, bigotry and quackery, and a more urgent endeavor to lift the under-dog out of his misery and into a life worth living."

A bill introduced in the Missouri legislature would require farmers' wives to serve hot biscuits twice a day. There ought to be a clause in there providing exemption for those who have not yet been farmers' wives at least one year.

We don't know what job Major Peake has lined up for Harry Sinclair at the Washington jail, but if the major retains his sense of humor he will give Mr. Sinclair a job at the information desk.

A man writes to a newspaper advising President Hoover that the strain of handshaking can be mitigated by seizing the other man's hand first and shaking it cordially, rather than letting him grab yours. The only trouble with that kind of reception is that the visitor is likely to ask for a job.

With Mr. Coolidge in the "insurance game" he probably will learn there are plenty of people who will choose to run.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The Tynmites were amazed to see the stars as mad as they could be. They stood and watched them tell the Thunder Man to stop his rain. At last the Thunder Man agreed that no more rainstorms did he need. Said he, "I'll hold showers back a while, and that will be your gain." "Oh, thank you," said one little star. "That plainly shows how kind you are, and now we'll go back to our places, high up in the sky. The light we have is very strong, and we will shine out all night long. We hope that we can pay you back for kindness, bye and bye." But, as they started on their way, the Thunder Man cried, loudly, "Hey! Why don't you take these Tynmites up in the sky with you? Each one's a friendly little man, so be nice, now, as you can." One of the stars replied, "Why sure! That's just what we will do."

Then, to the Tynmites it turned, and said, "There's much that can be learned. We're on our way. Just follow us and you will have some fun." The Tynmites agreed that this was something they would never miss. But Coppy cried, "How can we go? Through air we cannot run." "Oh, look!" cried Scouty. "See who's here. The friendly Goofygoo brings cheer. He'll take us in our cabin, so that simplifies it all. We will not have to run through air. In fact we wouldn't even dare. I know we're much too heavy, and we'd surely take a fall."

The Goofygoo brought the cabin near and said, "Crawl in and have no fear. I'll trail those friendly little stars and it will be like play. So, all the bunch began to grin, and soon each one had crawled right in. In just another moment they were on their merry way."

(The Tynmites get in a battle of shooting stars in the next story.)

SMALLPOX IN ENGLAND

Pars, April 17—(AP)—The French government today temporarily suspended regulations invoked yesterday requiring travelers entering France from England to have been vaccinated for smallpox within two months past.

The government announced that the French and British health authorities would confer soon as to the best methods of protecting French citizens from an epidemic of smallpox which was alleged to exist in England.

"No matter how many of you are against me, no matter how hard you fight me or how badly you beat me, let us have fair play which is the one thing that holds society together with the force of gravity."

Smoke Blocks Transmission of Healthful Rays

By Alice G. Bryant, M. D. Boston, Mass.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

What is "fresh air"? It is a meaningless term and a fallacious misnomer. It lacks tangibility and should sedulously be avoided. But from the viewpoint of many people there is almost a natural preference for this term. It is therefore fitting that we should not permit our minds to be confused in understanding the essential differences between "fresh air" and clean air. The evil outcome of smoke-polluted air in densely populated areas is sometimes brought home to us very vividly by linking up reliable investigations of careful and thoughtful public health officials.

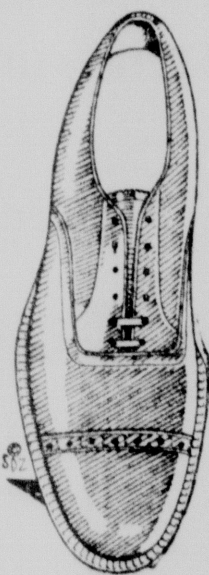

To quote Dr. J. S. Owens, an English authority on the subject, "In the United Kingdom from domestic fires alone, two and a half million tons of soot, half a million tons of tar and three to four million tons of sulphuric acid were sent into the air." Doctor Owens was specially severe on the domestic fire; this he pointed out gave off five per cent of the coal burnt as soot, whereas industrial fires made soot to about one-half per cent of the coal consumed.

It is clear that the dumping and wastefulness of such a valuable product as coal with its by-products is even more extensive in our own country, where prodigious wastefulness is characteristic of our nation. It is also clear that smoke-polluted air soils and injures textile fabrics and necessitates frequent cleansing of structures. It is harmful to plant life. It interferes with the sun's health-giving rays. All in all, it is an unbelievable and a wasteful condition.

From the threshold of human life to the end of its earthly existence, we are sacrificing more than base dollars and cents. It is likewise clear that such air is a polluted air, and not a "fresh air." Yet in the face of these facts there are groups of people whose slogans are "fresh air" and "window ventilation" and "window ventilation" means uncontrolled ventilation. Our heating and ventilating engineers would forecast the demand for "clean air" by mechanical equipment. They would maintain an approved outfit under control from its installation to its scientific cooperative working and supervision.

Window ventilation with "fresh air" is unattainable, and it sacrifices reliability of control. It is subject to the vagaries of man and of the seasons. We need more effective legal measures to lessen smoke production. We need to obtain more effective control over the carrying out of these measures.

All these foregoing questions are vitally important. They concern our health and well-being. Human life is being threatened and oppressed. It is imperatively necessary to call a spade a spade, and to do away with these terms of "fresh air" and "window ventilation"—in other words, uncontrolled ventilation.

The schools competing are Paw Paw, Ashton, Franklin Grove, Steward and Lee Center.

Arrie J. Draper and Miss Margaret J. Sondgeroth of Dixon were married in Dixon April 9 by Justice Grover W. Gehant. They were attended by Mrs. Mamie Miller and Richard Sondgeroth. The bride was tastefully attired in tan crepe de chine, with hat, shoes and other accessories to

They plan to make their home in Sterling where the groom has been employed in the wire mills until recently, when a serious accident there, has prevented his return. Their many friends unite in extending all good wishes for their happiness and prosperity.

The Pilgrim Study Club will meet Thursday afternoon, April 25 at the home of Mrs. W. S. Frost. Mesdames C. W. Ross and A. Aschenbrenner are the hostesses.

You will invariably find the Lee Center news in the Telegraph every week. Former residents of this place are interested to learn of the activities of the church, school, fraternal organizations and of the citizens here and the correspondent tries to obtain all such information.

CALLED BANDIT'S BLUFF

St. Louis, April 17—(UP)—Bandit Eddie Gorman of Montreal, was captured here today after a bank cashier looked down his revolver and challenged him to "shoot and be damned." He ducked and ran as the cashier, Roy Kreur, of the North St. Louis Trust Company, pushed an alarm button in his cage and reached for his gun. Police caught Gorman hiding in the cellar of a nearby home.

FIGHT COURT BILL

Springfield, Ill., April 17—(AP)—Senator James J. Barbour's bills to give the Illinois Supreme Court power to prescribe the rules of practice and procedure in state courts was called for passage this morning and aroused a storm of debate which threatened to last far into the afternoon. FIRE PREVENTION IMPORTANT PHASE OF CONSERVATION

State Fire Marshal in Citation of Striking Statistics

Springfield, Ill., April 18—(AP)—Fire prevention is an important phase of conservation, state Fire Marshal S. D. Legreid said today in support of state wide observation of conservation week.

Legreid's records show that more than $120,000,000 in property has been destroyed by fire in five years. This is more than enough to have retired the entire $100,000,000 state highway bond issue with interest.

"A special survey just completed," he said, "for November and December, 1928, and January, 1929, shows 101 deaths from fire in Illinois during those months—an average of more than one a day. The number of injuries was 230.

"Fire prevention is entirely practical because 75 per cent of the fires are due to preventable causes. A considerable portion of the remainder are largely preventable through reasonable precautionary efforts.

"Fire prevention ranks as a conservation effort of major importance because property burned is uselessly destroyed. Fire insurance may cover its value, but replacement must come out of the general stock of materials and resources of the country. Every building burned makes an additional demand on the lumber supply for replacement. The diminishing timber supply of the country is urgent enough reason for determined fire prevention efforts, if there were no other reason.

"Principal causes of fire, as revealed in last year's loss report for Illinois were:

"Sparks on roofs—Clean flues and fireproof roofs will stop them.

"Electricity—Due largely to improper installation, and amateur tampering with circuits and fuses.

"Chimneys—Cracks, open mortar joints or overheating are usually to blame.

"Stoves and furnaces—Defects in installation, need of repairs and overheating are the principal hazards.

"Spontaneous combustion—Oily rags, oil mops and rubbish are a common cause.

"Matches and smoking—Pure carelessness.

"Exposure—Due to one building taking fire from another.

"A clean place seldom burns and good housekeeping is the first rule of fire prevention. A person who keeps a clean, orderly place usually sees that everything about the premises is kept in repair and is safe. His example usually has a stimulating effect on his neighbors."

East St. Louis Cuts Expenses Drastically

East St. Louis, Ill., Apr. 17—(UP)—Having estimated available revenue at $566,000, the East St. Louis city council yesterday planned to cut $65,000 from the year's governmental expenditure.

Councilmen started with themselves by deciding to allow each member to use his own discretion in reducing salaries and claims against the city treasury.

Five policemen and nine firemen were dropped from the rolls yesterday as one of the steps in the drastic reduction of city operating expenses. Pay vouchers for the first three months of 1929 were not cashed until yesterday when banks announced they believed the vouchers could be recognized following definite effort toward reducing the city's expenses.

Averill of Indians Has Two Home Runs in as Many Days

BY FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor
New York, April 18.—The Cards usually are stacked against the debut of the high priced rookie in baseball. Once in a dog's age, the rookie turns the tables and makes good from the start.

The latter is true of Earl Averill, who hails from far off Snohomish, Wash., and plays in the outfield of the Cleveland Indians. In two games, Averill, reported to have cost the Cleveland club $45,000, has two home runs to his credit—both of them healthy belts over the high right field wall of the Indians' home grounds.

Earl is happy as a kid with a new toy, and Manager Roger Peckinpaugh is not exactly grieving over the situation. The Indians need all the help they can get this season, and if Averill lives up to his early promise the Cleveland club may have a look at the first division—now and then.

Ty Cobb broke in with a bang when he came to the majors more than a score of years ago, and others have done so, but it is not on record that a rookie with the eyes of the home town fans fixed critically upon him has come through heretofore with a homer a day for his first two days in fast company.

Averill is Modest
"I hope I won't get a swelled head," said Averill last night. "I've got sense enough to know it's far too early to make any predictions of what I will do in the big leagues."

"I'm tickled to death over my good beginning, and I'm going to keep right on trying."

"Out in the Pacific Coast League, I usually hit 25 or 30 homers a season, but the parks are smaller out there than here."

"Anyhow, I'm ahead of Babe Ruth for the moment."

The new Cleveland find weighs only 160 and is six feet tall. His regular bat weighs but 40½ ounces, but occasionally he goes up to the plate swinging one of 48 ounces.

Averill came to Cleveland from the San Francisco club in the Pacific Coast League, 1928 champions. In 189 games last season, he made 270 hits, including 36 home runs, but none made the impression of his circuit chugging during the past two days. On his first trip to the plate on Tuesday Earl knocked the ball over the fence. Yesterday his homer came in the third inning.

"He's the best looking youngster to come up in a long time," Manager Peckinpaugh said. "He's just a real good hitter. We won't say anything about his home run record for a while yet, but I feel sure Averill is going to make good."

LISTEN TO THIS, FOLKS

Rogers Hornsby and Kiki Cuyler, celebrated batsmen of the National League, agree that George Uhle is one of the smartest pitchers they ever faced, according to H. G. Salsinger, the Detroit scribe.

Neither Hornsby nor Cuyler are in the same league with the Mule but they saw quite a lot of him during the exhibition series between the Cubs and the Tigers.

The two Cub stars said that Uhle never gives you the same ball twice, that he throws them all differently and that he works on every batter. "Even with two and three he won't give you a good ball to hit," they said.

AND HE MAY DO IT
Uhle could cause a lot of ruckus in the American League if he stepped out and won 25 ball games for the Detroit and a couple of man-

PITY THE MAN

"ON A DIET"

Just to Look at a Good Appetizing New England Boiled Dinner Raises a Riot in His Poor Dilapidated Stomach.

When certain kinds of food upset your stomach and cause indigestion, sourness, gas and general misery why punish yourself by going "on a diet."

Why not start to rebuild your broken down stomach—Why not make your weak stomach so strong and vigorous that it will be able to digest and assimilate even the heartiest foods?

You've probably tried a lot of "relievers" that help for an hour or so and then leave your stomach in as bad a condition as ever.

Why not try the sensible plan of taking a remedy that not only brings almost instant relief, but has the power to tone up your disabled stomach and put it in such a clean and splendid condition that it will soon be able to digest anything you eat, without a particle of distress?

Such a medicine is Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a pleasant, palatable elixir that Schildberg's Pharmacy and Campbell's White Cross Drug Store and up-to-date druggists anywhere in America are perfectly willing to sell on a basis of money back if it doesn't give the fullest measure of satisfaction.—Adv.

agers of the other clubs think he will do it. They know that he has the stuff in him and they think that a change of scenery will interest him and that he will bear down for Bucky Harris, for one season at least.

The National League batters who have looked at Prudhomme, a rookie pitcher, have a high regard for the young man's stuff. It is their opinion that he has more stuff than Uhle but that, as a matter of course, he isn't as smart or can't know as much right now.

WE SOON WILL KNOW

The influence (good or bad) of the Hornsby person on the ball club continues to be one of the chief topics of discussion in speculating upon the chances of the Chicago Cubs in the National League pennant race.

Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, was the only one who expressed a positive opinion to us in the southern training sector about Hornsby and his influence on a ball club. And his opinion was very positive an expressed very positively.

"That fellow will break up any ball club he ever plays with," Hendricks said.

Since then some players of the St. Louis, New York and Boston clubs with whom Hornsby has played, have been quoted as saying that Hornsby will not be of benefit to the Cubs unless he has changed.

MAY HAVE BEEN THIS

Apparently he has changed. The Chicago correspondents who followed the ball club through the training season say he has changed. At least in one way. He is no longer a "loner" and he fraternizes with the other ball players. He even threw a big feed for some of the players and the writers. That ought to be worth the front page. But those who know him insist that it wasn't a gesture because he is too independent of the opinions of others.

Perhaps the players on the other clubs he played with forced him to do it alone and that he has found some players on the Chicago club who are willing to mix with him socially.

Textile Workers On Strike In Mexico

Mexico City, April 17.—(UP)—With the Mexican revolution concentrated in one corner of the nation, the country found itself confronted today with a strike of 11,000 textile workers.

The workers announced late last night they would walk out today in sympathy with employees at the Sourasky mills here, which were shut down recently. The workers withheld their decision until a conference with factory owners failed to bring results.

Strike leaders announced the workers would walk out in Mexico City and vicinity first and later in the state of Puebla. Still later the Vera Cruz workers will strike.

The Sourasky mills were closed by permission of an arbitration board when the owners said there was excess production. The workers asserted the closing was unnecessary.

SOCIETY NEWS

Pleasant Meeting American Legion Auxili.

The American Legion Auxiliary, Dixon Post No. 12, held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Legion Hall. The attendance was very good.

The chairman of the Sunshine committee reported some work done for children of a local World War Veteran. The hospital chairman reported a very enjoyable day at the home of Mrs. Jesse Gardner, last week. A large amount of carpet rags were sewed, and a delicious dinner served at noon. There were twenty present. A large number of the Dixon ladies attended the District Convention at Lanark last week. The reports of this were very interesting. Mrs. Catherine Bartling, Dept. Historian and Mrs. Florence Kellogg, Senior Vice President of the Dept. were guests of the convention, and gave splendid talks on Legion Auxiliary work. Mrs. Kellogg attended the National Defense conference held at Washington this spring and her report of this should be a great help to all present to understand more fully the meaning of the word Americanism.

The Lanark Auxiliary served a fine dinner for the convention ladies.

The Mr. Morris unit exemplified the initiatory work of the Auxiliary. This work was done very well.

The Dixon unit is sponsoring the "Dime Collection." A great many units of the state are taking this up. The times for the turned into Department and used to assist the World War men in securing their compensation from the government. Mrs. Mary Schmucker and Mrs. Lila Wagner compose the committee on this.

Mrs. Nona Pomeroy is entertaining at her home, 1009 Third street Tuesday, April 30, with a benefit card party. This is for the Auxiliary ladies and friends.

Twentieth Birthday Happily Observed

On Wednesday evening about forty young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ortigues to celebrate the twentieth birthday of Daniel. The evening was spent in dancing and playing cards and at a late hour refreshments were served. At a late hour all departed wishing Daniel many happy returns of the day and leaving him many nice gifts, also.

Ruths Are At Home At Riverside Drive

New York, April 19—(AP)—The Babe Ruths were at home today in their 11-room apartment at Riverside Drive and 88th Street.

Two young girls will live with them, as will also Mrs. Ruth's mother and two brothers.

Ruth pointed with pride to a pretty room with twin beds that had been prepared for Dorothy Helen Ruth, his 8-year-old adopted daughter, and Julia Marshall Hodgson, Mrs. Ruth's 12-year-old daughter by a former marriage.

"I suppose those two girls will fight for the bed next to the window just like baseball players do," said Ruth. He then pointed out other points of interest in his new home: a billiard room which he expects also to convert into a miniature gymnasium, a grand piano done in the French manner and a $7,000 diamond bracelet he had given his bride, the former Mrs. Claire Hodson, as a wedding gift.

Mrs. Ruth, a former actress who came from Athens, Ga., said she first met Babe in Washington, in 1923 and that baseball is her favorite sport. She is slim and petite.

The Ruths, after their early morning marriage yesterday, entertained friends at their new home with a wedding breakfast of ham and eggs. A wedding toast in champagne was drunk.

"I was determined to have a Clear Skin"

A CLEAR, smooth, lovely skin bespeaks rich, red blood. It is Nature's outward reflection of the condition within you.

Men and women, both justly covet admiration. Everyone can expect such satisfaction to its fullest extent if they are the possessors of a clear unblemished skin.

If you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema—you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, the body's power of resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite improves; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You sleep soundly. Your nerves become steady. S.S.S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells. Take S.S.S. daily at mealtimes. Seek energy, vitality, and a clear skin, through the great blood tonic which is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Rapp-Wrap Wax Food Wrapper is such a heavy fine quality that it should not be confused with what is generally termed "wax paper" (the thin tissue grade) as that quality paper is wholly unfit for the many uses suggested below:

USES OF RAPP-WRAP WAX PAPER—Because of its quality we recommend [without reservation] its use as follows:

- IN THE KITCHEN
For wrapping all moist food products such as cheese, cold cuts of meat, lettuce, radishes, celery, cake, etc. For wrapping "sandy" foods like fish, onion or garlic flavored foods, cantaloupes, etc., to prevent contaminating other foods in the refrigerator.
For covering cut surfaces of cantaloupes, watermelons, grapefruit, etc., to prevent them drying out.
Used under the cover to insure Sealing of Steamed Puddings or breads.
For rolling or kneading dough. Wrapping Roasts or Fish during baking or for Cabbages to prevent drying.
We recommend thoroughly WRAPPING "left over" foods before placing into refrigerator to prevent refrigerator odors and to KEEP RAUCERS AND DISHES OUT OF THE FOOD CHAMBER. Merely covering food on a saucer or dish will not fully cover it as a rule.
For lining pie and cake tins to avoid the necessity of buttering them.
Pour candy on a sheet of Rapp-Wrap to cool. When cool cut candy into squares and wrap to it.
For hard boiled and deviled eggs, and cold picnic luncheon generally. (A roll of Rapp-Wrap should be taken to the picnic so that "left over" foods may be wrapped for the return trip).
For use under jelly glass, horseradish, mustard and other jar lids.
For everything and anything in the food line to keep it wholesome and sanitary until used.
Rapp-Wrap is especially useful on the FARM where milk crocks, milk bottles, butter and dairy products are handled. These items of food are particularly susceptible to spoilage and contamination.
- IN THE DINING ROOM
For use under the server's and baby's plates to keep the table cloth spotless. For wrapping silver to keep from tarnishing.
For wrapping foods left from the meal before placing into refrigerator.
- IN THE LIVING ROOM OR PARLOR
Cover highly polished table surface (under scarf) before putting lamp, vases and other heavy articles on them. The wax used in Rapp-Wrap will keep these surfaces "waxed" and free from cracking.
- IN THE BEDROOM
Rapp-Wrap is especially useful for discarding infants wear.
Hickory chafe used by sick persons or those having colds should be well wrapped to prevent spreading of disease. Other uses will suggest themselves here.
- IN THE BATHROOM
Wrap toilet accessories, especially soap, wash cloth, shaving brush, etc. when traveling.
Smooth a curling iron by simply clamping a piece of Rapp-Wrap after the iron is hot.
- IN THE LAUNDRY
An electric iron or mangle, when worn, will take the wax off of Rapp-Wrap and keep the ironing surfaces in perfect condition.
- MISCELLANEOUS
Wrap thoroughly all tools and fine instruments to prevent rusting.
Cut flowers when sprinkled with water and properly wrapped with Rapp-Wrap will remain fresh for many hours.
A piece of Rapp-Wrap on the bottom of birds cage will keep it clean.
Many other general uses will suggest themselves to you for this wonderful product.

The east is gradually thawing out, and the scheduled baseball openings along the Atlantic seaboard may yet be held, as witness the promising start in Washington yesterday. Although clouds hung low and cold winds swept Chesapeake Bay, the Senators went through their opening frills, the most elaborate along the Major League trail for the entertainment of President Hoover. Mrs. Hoover, a good part of the official family, and a small but select gathering of paying guests.

Walter Johnson made his managerial debut in Washington by tagging the venerable Sad Sam Jones for mound duty against Mr. McGillicuddy's choice, Carrol Yerkes, lately of Portland, Ore., and Hatboro, Pa. They were both wrong, Walter more than Connie. By the way of correcting his initial blunder, Professor McGillicuddy sent for Eddie Rommel as the Big Train shuffled E. Garland Braxton into the line of fire.

Senators Swamped
The Athletics led by 5 to 4 as the second-choice boxmen settled into position after the second inning, but continued their familiarity with Senatorial pitching, or throwing, until the margin had become 13 to 4 at the end of the fifth. Adolph Liska halted the outrage at this point, but the Mackmen gave no ground and the score remained stationary through to the finish.

President Hoover, free to depart after throwing out the first ball, remained to watch the discomfiture of his hosts until the ultimate put-out had been recorded.

While all this was going on, the Yankees were announcing their second postponement with word that everything possible would be done to put on the opening game today.

Gets Second Homer
The Detroit Tigers poured a neat dose of shellac down the throats of the Cleveland Indians to the tune of 15 to 3 notwithstanding Mr. Earl Averill's second home run in two days of major league effort. The San Francisco strong man now leads both leagues in circuit blows, regardless of anything Mr. Ruth may do to alter the situation in games to come.

spared the countryside whatever might have happened between the Braves and the Robins at Boston, the National League spotlight remained upon Wrigley Field. The full power of Cub bats, diverted from Grimes' head until too near the finish in the opener on Tuesday, struck Remy Kremer where it hurt yesterday. The result was a Pirate rout, 13 to 2, in nine innings, consisting of a double by Wilson and a home run by Stephenson so mixed with three passes that five runs resulted, but Grimm poked another one out of the lot on him in the fourth.

Fred Fussell gave up a run in the seventh, but had the satisfaction of fanning the great Rogers Hornsby with the bases filled. The eighth was a different story. Malone, Beck and Cuyler filled the bases with singles, and Hornsby promptly emptied them by means of a home run into the right field steeple.

The Reds came to life against Willie Sherdel at Cincinnati, and evened matters in the Cardinal series by winning, 8 to 3. Jim Bottomley collected his first home run off Pete Donohue, who held the invaders safe all afternoon.

LAUGHS
from the
DIAMOND

BY BILLY EVANS

I am glad that Bill Klem has reconsidered his determination to retire and again will be a member of the National League staff of umpires. In the 22 years I spent in the majors, it was my good fortune to officiate in any number of important series with Klem. I might say that there have been umpires just as good as Klem, but certainly none any better.

Klem brooks no interference on the ball field. I feel sure that the only fine that Klem ever rescinded was at my behest. That's another story.

Meeting Klem last winter, we naturally discussed baseball, and one of the things talked over was the biggest laugh we ever got out of a serious situation or at least that looked that way at the time. I will let Klem tell his best laugh:

"I was umpiring in Philadelphia at the time and one of the sports writers in a Sunday edition featured me for almost a page of copy," says Klem. "The story was a big boost and, in the opinion of the writer, I deserved to be ranked as a star among the umpires of the major leagues. Since every fellow prefers praise to criticism, I was naturally much pleased at the complimentary notice.

In the game Monday, the day following publication of the article, I had a tough time of it. Everything seemed to go wrong. At various stages of the game there would come from the Philly bench certain statements from the story of the day previous, followed by the usual "Razzberry" or "I don't believe it." It kept getting worse and I finally decided I would have to nip the affair in the bud. As is customary with umpires, I picked a player from the bench, a youngster, whose name I didn't even know, as the one to be chased. This course is followed by most umpires, so as not to weaken the team but merely serve as a warning.

"Surely, you don't mean me, Mr. Klem?" said the youngster. I had picked on.

"Yes, I mean you and hurry up about it, make yourself scarce," was my reply.

"The rookie slowly picked himself up from the bench, took a chew of tobacco, put on his sweater, looked around for his glove and moved leisurely toward the exit sign leading to the club house. As he reached the plate, he stopped for a moment and got rid of the following line of chatter at my expense.

"So you're Bill Klem, star of the big league umpires! Well, all I have to say is, if you don't guess balls and strikes any better than picking me out as the noise-maker, the fellow who wrote that story is either a Yesterday's hero Rogers Hornsby, who weathered a storm of criticism for his failure to star at bat in the opening game of the season and provided the big punch in the victory of the Chicago Cubs over the Pittsburgh Pirates with a home run with the bases filled in the eighth inning. Hack Wilson made four hits as the Cubs, supporting good pitching by Malone, won 13 to 2.

The presence of President Hoover and a distinguished gathering of notables could not save the Washington Senators from a 13 to 4 defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia Athletics. Fox starred at bat.

The Cincinnati Reds have started right in after a new double play record, making good use of three double killings to beat the Cardinals, 8 to 3. Last year the Reds made 194 double plays to set a record. Pete Donohue, veteran pitcher, held the National League champions safe while his mates pounded out their first victory.

George Uhle, rehabilitated hurler, pitched his new club, the Tigers, to a 15 to 3 victory over his former team mates, the Indians. Earl Averill, high priced rookie, made his second homer in two days.

Alvin Crowder, leading American League pitcher of 1928, kept Chicago's hits scattered and the St. Louis Browns made it two straight over the White Sox, 5 to 3.

Rain once more prevented opening games at New York, Philadelphia and Boston, with better weather promised for today.

If the New York Giants succeed in getting started at Philadelphia this afternoon they will be without a regular second baseman, and may have to use Pat Crawford, a rookie first baseman, at the keystone sack. Andy Reese, regular second sacker, wrenched his back yesterday. Andy Cohen is laid up with a bad leg, and Mel Ott is needed in the outfield.

SAY YOUTH HEADS RING

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 17—(UP)—Police today arrested Ray Harger, 17, and charged he was the ring leader of a gang of boys who stole more than a score of automobiles here in the last month. Several days ago police caught Marvin Roush, 16, and Lloyd Williams, 19, as they were driving a stolen car. They admitted the other thefts and implicated Harger, who is Williams' cousin, police said.

Harger was specifically charged with the theft of a car in which there was wearing apparel valued at $600. He denied any connection with the thefts.

Aimee at Judge's Trial

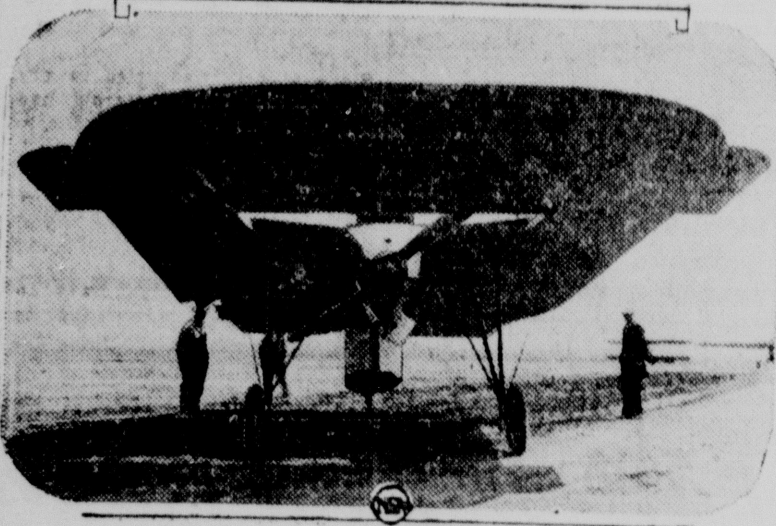

Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, is shown as she waited to testify in Sacramento, Calif., in the impeachment proceedings against Superior Judge Carlos F. Hardy. Tornado Makes Airplane of Auto

The Latest in Airplanes

If this odd plane, designed by Earl E. McClary of Long Beach, Calif., flies it will have a greater lifting power per square foot than any ship now made. McClary says the pear-shaped wings will lift 5 1/2 pounds per square foot, compared to the average lift of 3 pounds. Note the propeller turns through a slit in the giant wing.

NEVER HAD SUCH RELIEF BEFORE; PRAISES GLY-CAS

Entire System Changed Almost Like New for Her by Powerful Herbal Remedy.

"This wonderful Gly-Cas has cleansed my system of poisons that were tearing down my health and built me up until I simply feel better in every way." Mrs. Rosetta Susang, 641 N. County Ave., Postonia, Ohio, recently said in praising this amazing herbal remedy.

MRS. SUSANG.

"Every medicine and treatment I tried before failed to give me satisfactory relief," she continued. "Possibly something would help me temporarily, but after a while the effect wore off and then I'd be back in my old distressing condition again. My kidneys acted too frequently, caused soreness across my back and I couldn't get my bowels to function properly. Was subject to dizziness and nerves were just all torn up. Good rest at night was entirely out of my reach, muscles and joints of my body were sore and stiff and I seemed to have no ambition. Some days I'd honestly think I couldn't get through my housework at all. But what a change Gly-Cas has made in me! This wonderful medicine seemed to go directly to the cause of my health troubles and I don't know of a way it hasn't improved me. Kidneys are almost back to normal now, all the soreness has left my back and the former stiffness and misery in my joints and muscles is gone. It surely makes a person thankful to get a medicine like Gly-Cas and I feel and hope that I can help other poor sufferers to find relief in recommending this wonderful preparation to the public."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, 501 Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. S. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hulse; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

Foch Biography in Tribute to Yankees. Paris, April 17.—(UP)—Tribute to the United States Army, whose entry into the conflict "allowed the allies to win the war," is paid by Marshal Ferdinand Foch in the first biography of the allied Commander-in-Chief published since his death, which appeared today.

The book, "Memorial de Foch" by Raymond Recouly, noted French journalist and author, is almost an autobiography, since it consists of a series of interviews with Foch.

The sensation of the book is Foch's denunciation of former Premier Georges Clemenceau, whom he accuses of wasting the fruits of victory.

In response to a question, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, told Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Laborite, in the House of Commons today that Britain had no intention of calling a special conference on naval armaments after the present meeting of the preparatory disarmament commission in Geneva.

In response to a question, Sir Austen said the government at present has no intention of initiating tripartite discussions with Japan and the United States on maritime law. He disagreed with the statement that failure to seek an understanding on maritime law was delaying the progress of disarmament.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMITAGE when he rescues her fox fur from a thief who had snatched it. Their friendship grows until PAMELA HUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, tries to lure him away from her. Then HUCK CONNOR becomes infatuated with her and Pamela amuses herself by playing with both men. Her brother, HAROLD, is in love with Mildred but realizes that she cares more for Stephen than for him. He begs her to go with him and she consents, hoping to keep him from Huck's gambling crowd. Mildred's mother has a bad accident and she has to stay home from her work a week. Harold does all that he can to help and Stephen comes to call, feeling regret over his long absence. He makes an engagement with Mildred but is prevented from keeping the date. Pamela tells him that Mildred is trying to marry her brother for his money. Stephen defends her and Pamela is furious. She cables her father and has Mildred discharged. Harold tries to have her reinstated but to no avail. Pamela succeeds in poisoning Stephen's mind against Mildred and the latter faces dreary days of searching for work. Stephen seems lost to Pamela.

But Huck becomes an insistent that Pamela decides to marry and snub him in favor of Stephen. So she gives him a stand-up, and when he objects tells him that she and Stephen are engaged.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI

"Was that necessary?" Stephen asked of Pamela when they were out of Huck's hearing. They had left him speechless with surprise. His loss of words lasted for only a few seconds, however, but in those few seconds Pamela had twined her arm in Stephen's and walked quickly away with him.

"Was that necessary?" she repeated innocently. "Do you mean not waiting for his congratulations? I'm afraid he hasn't any for you."

"You know what I mean." "Oh, standing him up? Well, yes it was. He's been a nuisance."

"Come off it, Pam." No, and then Stephen used Harold's shortening of her name. "I don't like that fellow and I wouldn't care what he thought if we really were engaged, but your announcement seemed to hit him pretty hard."

Pamela drew away from him. "Don't criticize," she said petulantly. "He needed drastic treatment. Wouldn't understand anything else."

They were now at the curb and Stephen helped her into the taxicab that drew up for them and took his place beside her before answering.

"At least I'm glad you realize at last that Connor isn't the sort of man for you to know," he said seriously.

Pamela felt like telling him that Mildred wasn't the sort for him to know either, but she was too wise to say anything to bring the other girl to his mind.

"Oh, I'm beginning to realize right enough that I've got to look after myself without any help from the family," she said placidly. "Harold doesn't approve of Connor," Stephen returned shortly.

PAMELA sighed and leaned over closer to him. "What good is Harold?" she asked in accents of childish helplessness.

Stephen said nothing, being unable to think of anything very complimentary to Harold.

"If he were taking proper care of me he would have a talk with you," Pamela went on surprisingly. "With me?" Stephen said blankly. "Of course," Pamela cooed, and cuddled contentedly against him.

"He'd want to know what your intentions are." She paused until Stephen got the full meaning of her words, then hurried on, and there was no pretense of mirth in her voice.

He picked up the receiver, a light of hard purpose glinting in his narrowed black eyes. "See if you can locate Mr. Harold Judson and ask him to call my room."

"I suppose that I shall have to ask you myself," she said. "Well, you may consider that I have. Are you going to marry me or not?"

Stephen laughed. "Don't be a goose," he told her. "What would we live on?"

It was now Pamela who laughed. "You forget that I'm a golden goose," she declared triumphantly. "Oh, no, I didn't," Stephen replied earnestly. "Don't flatter yourself."

"Insufferable!" Pamela exclaimed and sat up to face him. "You mean you won't have me on any terms?"

Stephen reached out and pulled her closer. "Be quiet," he ordered. "I haven't heard any wee small voice telling me that you're the only girl in the world. I've got to wait for that, you know."

"Brute," Pamela gave the back of the hand he had slipped about her waist a vicious pinch.

"Quack!"

"Then keep your moonself remarks to yourself," Pamela admonished him. "What have inner voices to do with it? Isn't it enough when I tell you that I've decided we are to be engaged?"

"Are you serious?" Stephen asked, grown suddenly serious himself. As suddenly Pamela lifted her face to his and looked at him wistfully. "Steve, couldn't you guess?"

PAMELA slipped an arm around his neck and pressed her cheek harder against his. "Please don't talk about material things," she pleaded. "I'm so tired of people who have everything. That's not what matters. It's something you feel. Don't you feel anything, Steve, darling?"

"I feel like a cad," Stephen said honestly. "I'd no idea . . ."

"That doesn't excuse you," Pamela retorted, quick to take advantage of his weakening. He wasn't going to lose his head in a moon mist, she saw that, but if he felt apologetic he must feel a sense of guilt. With that to go on she had plenty.

"Unless you're the sort who rushes a girl without meaning anything," she went on, "which wouldn't be an excuse, either. Only an explanation. Of course, if you are that kind . . ."

Stephen wondered vaguely when he could have been said to have rushed Pamela. It seemed to him . . . he'd say . . .

She was laughing at him, but having no sleeve to receive the sound she kept it back of her putting, half-parted red lips. She had him going, she told herself exultantly. He was half bewildered now.

"Are you that kind?" she challenged, bringing her head around until she looked full into his eyes. "No, of course I'm not," Stephen denied, as vehemently as though he had been accused of some heinous offense.

"Then what were you doing?" Pamela asked, her lips beginning to quiver threateningly.

"Why . . . why . . . just . . . 'Just playing with me'?" Pamela put in before he could express his modern day thought that marriage was no longer taken for granted between two eligibles simply be cause they were fond of each other's company. She was certain he must have some such thought in his brain that would get out if she gave it an opportunity. She had to keep him fuddled.

Suddenly she dropped down into his arms and began to cry. Pamela crying! The girl of orchids and sapphires. The girl of ermine and pearls. The girl of silks and sables.

Stephen gulped. His arms tightened about her. She was soft and warm and fragrant. He felt as if he'd been given a glimpse of the private life of an unhappy princess, a princess that he'd never thought of as being altogether the same as other people. Possessing an honest-to-goodness heart, for instance.

He pulled her up to him and bent his head over her. Then he drew a deep breath. Ordinarily Stephen hated perfume. But was this exquisite scent perfume at all? Or was it just the aroma of Pamela's mode of life? Just a natural part of her charm?

He was tangled in the golden snare that Pamela had baited with tears. And when Pamela put up her lips and he kissed her he was lost.

BACK in the Judson hotel, in a room that housed a raging wolfman, a picture that approximated that scene in the taxicab was everywhere. Wherever the man looked, the fever of his tortured jealousy conjured up a girl with honey hair in the arms of her sweetheart.

For Huck Connor had taken Pamela's announcement as true. It would have surprised him as much to know that it wasn't so at the time she said it as it was a surprise Stephen to find it an accomplished fact.

He went at last to the telephone and picked up the receiver, a light of hard purpose glinting in his narrowed black eyes. "See if you can locate Mr. Harold Judson, please, and ask him to call my room," he told the switchboard operator when she answered his signal. "Mr. Connor speaking."

His voice was as cold as ice, but courteous, giving no hint of the blazing impatience that had come to him with his decision to see Pamela's brother and force the boy into opposing her engagement to Stephen Armitage.

Harold was found in the dining room, smoking over an untouched plate of hors d'oeuvre. When Huck's message was delivered to him he gave only a slight outward sign of his reaction to it—his fingers curled over his lighted cigarette until he felt the bite of the flame, then he dropped it on a tray.

Since Mildred had tried to pry his secret from him Harold had been practicing better facial control. His natural pallor—or rather the pallor that had belonged to him of late—helped him a great deal. It prevented people from noticing his sudden paling at sight of Huck Connor.

His hands, that might have betrayed him by their trembling, he was learning to keep out of sight in his pockets. Now he thrust them under the table, hating the sight of their telltale weakness. He wanted to find courage to fight, to face the music, to tell Huck Connor to go to the devil, but . . . his soul seemed to whimper at the thought of actually doing it.

He sat on at the table in silent rebellion, hating himself, hating Connor. Twice he lifted his hand to summon a waiter and send word to Huck that he wouldn't come. Each time he dropped it in defeat.

And at last he got up to go. (To Be Continued)

Sees Danger From McCaskrin Measure

Chicago, April 16.—(AP)—State's Attorney John A. Swanson has asserted that passage in the state legislature of the McCaskrin bill, which looks to revision of conspiracy law procedure, would seriously handicap prosecution of Chicago Sanitary District employees on conspiracy charges.

The bill, introduced by Representative McCaskrin of Rock Island, provides that existence of a conspiracy shall not be presumed from the commission of a crime.

In response to a question, Sir Austen said the government at present has no intention of initiating tripartite discussions with Japan and the United States on maritime law. He disagreed with the statement that failure to seek an understanding on maritime law was delaying the progress of disarmament.

Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

That bronchial asthma is now a curable disease is not as generally known as it should be. Until recent years nothing could be offered the sufferers from asthma but temporary relief. Now, seventy-five to eighty per cent of them can secure permanent freedom.

Asthma is not due to a single cause. It may be due to a "sensitivity" to any one of very many things. It may be an article of diet, or feathers, hairs, furs, powders or dusts of various kinds, or pollens. Any organic substance that may be eaten or inhaled—aside from the pure sugars and fats—may be the cause of asthma.

This would seem to make the search for the causes of asthma an endless task. On the contrary, most asthmas are due to some one of a comparatively small number of things, and therefore the search, while at first slow and easy, is usually not too long.

The physician who tries to determine the cause of asthma must know what trees, weeds and grasses grow in the community where the patient lives; how abundant they are and when they pollinate. He must inquire into the diet, and test the patient with various foods that are eaten. He must know about the pets and other domestic animals, the kinds of wearing apparel, also about the house furnishings, and even the dusts to which the patient may be exposed. Although this requires time and special knowledge, there is now someone able to do this work in almost every community of any size. The treatment may be removing the cause from the environment, or the food that is causing the disturbance. The patient then simply stops having attacks, and remains free as long as the cause is not reintroduced into the diet or environment. If it is impossible to remove the cause, treatment may sometimes consist of injections of the same material as causes the trouble. At first, the dose is very small. It is gradually increased, the patient's tolerance increasing with it, until he is able to take large doses. He then has tolerance enough to protect him against the irritant as he normally runs into it. Protection by such treatment does not last long if treatment is stopped, but, if treatment is continued, the protection may be kept up indefinitely and in some cases seems finally to become permanent. It is frequently a slow and prolonged process, but the results are often good. Treatment of children is nearly always satisfactory, and makes it possible for them to develop into normal men and women.

A Friend of the Family

Somewhere, near you, there is a J. C. Penney sign. It is a friendly sign—one that promises Quality Always At A Saving.

The next time you see that sign, drop in and look around. You will find it a real, "friend of the family."
